Founder | Brown Media

Deepak Arora a qualified ICWA professional from New Delhi came to try his fortune in Mumbai some 15+ years ago. He managed to produce for red ice, white light, early man - to name a few within a couple of years.

He has even produced multiple feature films & web series like Hawaizada, Smoke, TVF shows and many more projects in the industry.

After spending a decade working for others Deepak decided to start his own production house named - Brown Media Films and has not looked back since then. The production house is an amalgamation of a bunch of talented writers, creative directors and directors.

Brown Media brings out the best quality output in any given budget and makes every film with a personal vision as the client.

Executive Producer | Brown Media

Ameet Singh is a qualified Mathematics graduate from the University of Delhi. After working at American Express and Boston Consulting Group he realised that banking is not his cup of tea.

He started his career with Anand Gandhi as a writer and quickly moved into the field of advertising.

He has been a part of the advertising circuit for almost a decade now. He has worked for production houses like Red Ice, Moonshot, Paper Planes, 30 Second of fame and many more.

Has completed more than 150 ads and the fire in belly is still intact, he is an executive producer and partner at Brown Media Films. Personally believes in the fact that films teach us about life more than life itself.

Ameet has headed a similar multi lingual project as a Producer on a long form video for Meta's annual keynote – Fuel For India (flagship event) , where we showcase meaningful stories of Indians across the board leveraging Meta's tools to build or create innovative and amazing things.

My key role here was of a Producer where we worked with the research and writing team to find stories, conceptualise and build together a flow for the entire online event. The project involved working with the likes of Mark Zuckerberg, Meta India Ceo, Union Ministers of India.
